LOCAL GIRL WINS ANNUAL LEGION SCHOLARSHIP

A Gettysburg high school girl and a Littlestown high school boy were announced today as the top winners in the American Legion essay contest.

Dr. Lloyd C. Keefe, chairman of the contest, said that Miss Jean Wolfe, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles R. Wolfe, East Lincoln avenue, a senior at Gettysburg high school, made the highest score in the annual scholarship examination given in connection with the essay contest.

Richard E. Wolfe, Littlestown high school senior, son of Mr. and Mrs. Edgar Wolfe, 215 Lombard street, Littlestown, was named as the writer of the best essay in the contest. The Littlestown student who is editor-in-chief of the high school's year book and a member of the staff of the "Litonian," high school publication, will be presented with $20, the top prize in the essay division of the contest. CENSUS WILL GATHER DATA FOR SCHOOLS

When the census takers call at Gettysburg and Adams county homes, beginning Saturday, they will ask several questions, the answers to which will have a direct bearing on measuring the future school needs of the communities. It was pointed out today by Laurence McCulloch of York, district supervisor.

The inquiries will relate to the number of children of pre-school age, classified by age; number of school children, classified by age and by grade of school completed and number of college students, classified by age and by year of college completed.

To Be Made Available
Upon completion of tabulations of this information by the United States Bureau of Census, federal, state and local school authorities will have the facts on which to base plans for meeting the expanding school needs in practically all parts of the country, Mr. McCulloch stated.

Every community in the nation is vitally concerned with the school problem and in accurate statistical information on the subject, he said. Amounts paid in school aid programs are frequently based on this information. Congress, state legislatures, and federal, state, county and school district authorities have a common need for this information. Reliable statistics can be obtained (Please Turn to Page 2)

Park Is Given Old Patterns For '63 Cannon

The Gettysburg National Park has been presented with the set of patterns for the cast iron cannon carriages now used on the field, Dr. J. Walter Coleman, superintendent, announced today.

J. W. Shields, vice president of the Wolf company of Chambersburg, made the presentation on behalf of the company. The Wolf company, which makes flour machinery, secured the patterns from the Nute, McGhee, Geary company which was acquired some time ago by the Wolf company. Nute, McGhee and Geary purchased the patterns from Major Calvin Gilbert, who for many years prior to his death in 1939 operated a foundry on Buford avenue and cast most of the cannon for the Gettysburg battlefield and Valley Forge.

Doctor Coleman, in expressing the appreciation of the park service to the Wolf company, said that the molds would be lent to other national parks which had been seeking to place cannon but will have their permanent home here to be used to replace any carriages which may become broken here. So far when damage has occurred, the park service has been able to repair the carriages.

WELFARE STATE ECONOMICS HIT IN ROTARY TALK

The economics of the welfare state were challenged by Averell Broughton, New York business and economics consultant, in a talk given Monday evening before the local Rotary club at the YWCA.

Declaring that "no one can doubt that our system and our country have room for further development in many fields," Broughton continued: "But where in the world of today are conditions as good and life as safe and secure for the average man and his family?"

"In a sense," he noted, "we are not so much concerned with the economics of the welfare state as the fact that it does not provide what it promises—a betterment of the welfare of the people."

"Common Sense In Heavy Doses"
Quoting a British engineer as stating, "I have been over most of the world in these last few years. Only here in the United States do I ever see groups of people who look genuinely happy," the New York consultant termed the "welfare state the homes of depressed and unhappy people."

Challenging the claims of those who would endeavor to legislate Utopia here and now, Broughton said: "What we need is common sense applied to the problems before us in heavy doses. It is fatal to entrust economic and business problems to the care and guidance of hungry politicians and wishful thinkers. A large segment of our political and bureaucratic world has lost touch with economic realities. This is not as true of Congress as it is of the administrative agencies and the political fringe to whom the triumph of a party and political patronage are above (Continued on Page 6)

Making Democracy Work

Richard E. Wolfe, Littlestown high school senior, wrote the following essay which was awarded first prize in the annual American Legion essay contest held for high school seniors throughout the country.

It is an undeniable fact that all things good and worthwhile, needless to say, require the individual initiative of all concerned. In other words, to make anything possible necessitates the expenditure of a certain amount of downright hard work. Making democracy work is by no means an exception to the rule. But in making anything work, from the simplest device to the most complicated machine, a thorough understanding of the principles involved is of primary importance. Likewise, to keep the wheels of democracy turning it is equally essential first to understand clearly the funda-

WORD AWAITED
IN U.S. DEFENSE

By JACK BELL
Washington, March 28 (AP)—Eisenhower's word is awaited today by advocates of the defense of the United States. The word is awaited because only by the word and Congress probably will respond with a boost in military aid.

This viewpoint was made clear by the statement of Senator McClellan (D.-Ark.), who made an unsuccessful drive last night to cut President Truman's budget. A 10 per cent. cut, said a reporter that Eisenhower thinks the military needs more money he will for it.

That's a matter of life and death, McClellan said. "I think we make substantial cuts elsewhere in the budget but if General Eisenhower says that our defenses are being kept up adequately, Congress is almost sure to do something about it."

Senator Byrd (D.-Va.) said he hopes that when the general testifies before a Senate appropriations committee, probably tomorrow, Eisenhower will clear up what the Virginia senator said he thinks may be a misconception about a recent speech.

Eisenhower said then that this country has "disarmed to the extent in some directions even beyond to extent—that I, with deep concern for her present safety, could possibly advise."

Byrd said he thinks the general as not necessarily talking about a $13,028,000,000 military budget for the year beginning July 1. Byrd alleged Eisenhower may have been speaking of the speedy demobilization after the war and its effects on the defense setup.

Senator Ferguson (R.-Mich.), a member of the subcommittee, said his seemed to be borne out by Eisenhower's statement at Key West last night when he approved the budget before leaving as chairman of the Joint Chiefs of Staff.

Secretary of the Army Gray said a Detroit speech last night that made emphasis may have been put in Eisenhower's statement. "I doubt the general had reference to Army strength," Gray said.

Leads Guilty To Theft Of Chickens
Ervin J. Treiber, no fixed address, pled a plea of guilty to a charge of robbing of four chickens at a hearing Monday night before Justice of the Peace L. G. Kuhn, Hanover. In default of $500 bail he was committed to Adams county jail to await sentence.

Treiber, who was arrested by Constable Earl J. Haverstick, Abbotstown, on a detainer Thursday morning when he was released from York county jail after serving 60 days for theft of a March of Dimes container in the community on January 22, denied larceny of the chickens when arraigned before Squire Kuhn later in the day.

Chief of Police Maynard Masemer, McSherrystown, and Chief John S. Jerkheimer, Hanover, testified Monday night Treiber had admitted theft of four chickens from a coop at the rear of the home of Mrs. William Groft, 509 Main street, McSherrystown, on the night of January 24, when he was arrested for the theft of the March of Dimes container.

The "open house" committee, headed by Walter B. Lane, will also meet to consider further arrangements for this three-day event to be held at the engine house May 11, 12 and 13. In connection with the "open house" efforts will be made to list all farms in the area served by the Gettysburg fire department, to facilitate responding to calls in case of fire.

Rachel Taylor Death Unsolved In 10 Years
Harrisburg, March 28 (AP)—Pennsylvania state police today affirmed that on this tenth anniversary of the murder of Rachel Taylor, Penn State coed, they are still seeking proof to convict a long-time suspect.

"The suspect has been questioned a number of times since the crime was committed, but he just won't talk," said Capt. Harry McElroy, director of the State Police Bureau of Criminal Identification and Information.

Col. C. M. Wilhelm, state police commissioner, said that investigation into the case has never been relaxed. "Any and all leads that turn up are immediately brought to our attention," said Wilhelm.

The body of the 17-year-old Miss Taylor was found on the grounds of a schoolhouse six miles from State College, on March 28, 1940, a few hours after she had returned from an Easter vacation at her Wildwood, N. J., home. She was a freshman home economics student.

U.S. DIPLOMAT DIES IN CRASH
Ottawa, Ont., March 28 (AP)—Laurence A. Steinhardt, a veteran career diplomat on both sides of the iron curtain, died with four other persons today in burning wreckage of a U. S. embassy plane near here.

The plane plunked onto a farm soon after taking off from Ottawa for the United States. The sole survivor, a U. S. Air Force sergeant, told investigators: "We went down in flames."

Steinhardt, 57, had been ambassador to Canada since 1948, after serving as U. S. envoy to Soviet Russia, Czechoslovakia, Sweden, Peru and Turkey. He was a diplomatic trouble-shooter for the State Department in Moscow and Ankara, Turkey, during the last war. His wife and a daughter, 26, survive.

Electricians working near the crash scene said the two-engine C-47 was flying along in brilliant sunshine when flames appeared on the fuselage. The pilot began to head it down, and "almost made it" to the ground. The witnesses said the plane seemed to explode about 50 feet off the ground.

Those listed as dead, besides Steinhardt, were: Lt. Col. W. F. Trueblood, a U. S. Air Force exchange officer stationed in Ottawa; Capt. Thomas Archibald, U. S. Air Force pilot; Lt. Marcel (Mark) A. Belanger, assistant U. S. air attache here; and Alan W. C. Harrington, 20, son of the U. S. Minister to Canada Julian Harrington. Young Harrington was returning to school in Virginia.

The survivor, M. Sgt. Gwyn A. Long of the U. S. Air Force, got out of the wreckage and was taken to a hospital. He was listed as crew chief on the flight.

News Briefs
Detroit, March 28 (AP)—Negotiations in the Chrysler strike were snagged today over particulars of the company's $30,000,000 pension offer. The CIO United Auto Workers accused the company of "hedging," a charge which Chrysler immediately denied. A result of the split was to set back hopes for an early settlement of the 63-day-old walkout which has idled 140,000 workers in the automobile industry.

London, March 28 (AP)—Britain's shaky Labor government today ordered another dose of austerity—further cuts in purchases from the United States and other dollar countries—to cure the nation's continuing economic ills. Plans were outlined to cut Britain's estimated dollar drain in half in 1950 by a drastic 26 per cent slash in imports from hard currency countries—principally America.

ASHLEY, IRWIN PICKED TO WIN CLASS B TILTS

Harrisburg, March 28 (AP)—Ashley and Irwin are favorites to win their regional Class B title games tonight and move to the finals of the PIAA basketball playoffs.

Ashley is the defending eastern regional champion while unbeaten Irwin wore the Class B state crown in 1947 and 1948.

The Rockets of Ashley meet the Tigers of Kutztown for the eastern title at Allentown's Rockne Hall. Irwin's Mustangs are the opponents of Irwin's Knights at New Britain high school floor.

Irwin, District 7 (WPIAL) champion, has the best record of the district. The Knights own a victory over 41 games. Mercer, upset 26-36 winner over Kane's defending state champions a week ago tonight, will enter the game with a 14-4 record.

Ashley and Kutztown have almost similar records going into tonight's game. The Rockets were beaten twice by Swoyersville in the league but won 24 other games. Kutztown, too, was beaten twice by a league foe—Mt. Penn. of Berks county league—but owns triumphs.

Site Undetermined
The outcome of the eastern game will determine the site for Friday night's state finals. If Ashley wins, the site will be the Kingston armory. If Kutztown is the finalist, the probable site would be either Reading or Allentown.

Ashley and Kutztown battled the eastern title last year with the Rockets winning out, 53-30. Ashley lost to Kane, 45-44 in the district championship tilt.

Bill (Slim) Dankos, Ashley's 6-5 center who scored 686 points in 26 games, will carry the brunt of the Ashley attack against Kutztown's all-around quintet.

Kutztown won the District 3 crown from Susquehanna Township, 27-15, in the preliminary round, and then knocked off Schuylkill Haven of District 10 last Friday, 47-36.

Ashley, representing District 2, defeated Sayre (4), 82-62, and Clarks Summit (12), 60-35. Irwin turned back Rockwood (5), 34-34 and Cresson (6), 44-30, while Mercer's triumph over Kane was the Mustangs' only appearance in the playoffs.

Catholic Contests
Also on tonight's card are two contests to settle the state's Catholic championships. Reading Central (26-4) meets Pittsburgh Central (19-5) at Reading for the Class A title. Bethlehem Catholic (23-6) battles Pittsburgh St. James (26-3) at Pittsburgh for the Class B crown.

The state's four Class A teams remaining in the PIAA playoffs return to action tomorrow night. Unbeaten Swoyersville (District 2) plays Haverford (1) at Philadelphia's Penn. palestra for the eastern regional title. The western diadem will be decided in a scrap at the Mt. stadium between Homestead (District 7) and Westinghouse (8).

Baseball Briefs

Giants Work Pitchers
Phoenix, Ariz., March 28 (AP)—The team has come for New York Giants pitchers to get seven innings.

That was to have been the case yesterday with Sheldon Jones. But Jones, who had gone 13 innings without allowing an earned run in five exhibition starts, only went four.

He was nudged for three runs and four hits in the third inning of a game the Giants captured from the St. Louis Browns at Burbank, Calif., 3-0.

Jackie Is On the Ball
Vero Beach, Fla., March 28 (AP)—Second baseman Jackie Robinson is making the Brooklyn Dodgers forget about that overweight he brought to camp for the training grind.

The negro star, by belting two hits yesterday's 8-4 defeat by the Philadelphia Athletics, made it five straight games in which he has registered at least two hits per game—four against major league teams and one against Mobile. Nothing wrong with Jackie's famed batting eye.

Yankee Hospital List
St. Petersburg, Fla., March 28 (AP)—The New York Yankees' current hospital list has Dr. Sidney Gaynor popping around.

Cards Bench Bilko
St. Petersburg, Fla., March 28 (AP)—Big Steve Bilko has been benched as first baseman for the St. Louis Cardinals—which leads to speculation the rookie has muffed his chance, at least for the moment.

Manager Eddie Dyer says it isn't so. But the nod has gone to Glenn Nelson, who yesterday made three clean hits and handled 10 chances with ease. Bilko, a 240-pounder, has

Charles-Beshore Fight Cancelled

Buffalo, N. Y., March 28 (AP)—The twice-scheduled NBA heavyweight title bout between Ezzard Charles and challenger Freddie Beshore was definitely "off" today.

The New York State Athletic Commission announced last night the fight had been "postponed indefinitely" because a rib injury had bruised one of the champion's heart muscles. The commission said Charles would be able to fight in two months.

But, Promoter Dewey Michaels of the Fairview Athletic club washed his hands of the whole thing and said the fight was cancelled.

Michaels had sunk about $10,000 into trying to promote Buffalo's first heavyweight championship fight and apparently wasn't willing to go along with another postponement.

Whitman Sparks Phils

Clearwater, Fla., March 28 (AP)—Dick Whitman is making it tough for Manager Eddie Sawyer to put the ex-Dodger on the Philadelphia Phillies bench.

How can you bench a guy who is belting the ball at a 444 clip? Whitman led the Phillies to a 13-8 victory over the Washington Senators yesterday with four hits in six trips to the plate. In nine games this spring Whitman has collected 12 hits in 27 times at bat, including one home run.

A's Beat Dodgers

West Palm Beach, Fla., March 28 (AP)—Patience is a wonderful thing as the Philadelphia Athletics have proved many times.

The A's proved it again yesterday by turning six walks and Sam Chapman's double into a five-run rally in the eighth inning to defeat the Brooklyn Dodgers, 8-4.

The A's are old hands at waiting out an opposing pitcher with Eddie Joost the second-best at the art in the American league last year. Joost was the third Mackman to get on base in the big inning against Carl Erskine in yesterday's heel-and-toe derby.

Pesky Rejoins Sox

Sarasota, Fla., March 28 (AP)—Johnny Pesky who has been out of action for some time with a pulled side muscle is ready to return to the Boston Red Sox infield. Johnny had his first workout in many days yesterday and says he's ready to go again. The Sox, who do not play another exhibition until Wednesday when they face the New York Yankees here, will workout again today under the sharp eyes of Manager Joe McCarthy who may cut the squad further. Four players were optioned yesterday.

Flores Looks Good

Phoenix, Ariz., March 28 (AP)—Relief pitcher for the Cleveland Indians, Jesse Flores may be a starting pitcher if he keeps on displaying the stuff he did yesterday.

Flores, a 33-year-old castoff from Philadelphia's Athletics, gave up only one scratch hit in six innings as the Tribe beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 3-1 in an exhibition game at San Bernardino, Calif.

Manager Lou Boudreau figured the Mexican-born Californian as a natural for relief work—experienced, composed and a breaking-ball pitcher. But Lou may be changing his mind after viewing Jesse's effortless hurling.

CCNY QUINTET TO COP NCAA TITLE TONIGHT

New York, March 28 (AP)—The College of New York rules a two-point favorite tonight to subdue Bradley for the NCAA championship and thereby gain basketball immortality.

A victory for the once-unsung Beavers, who have been hot as a stove lid for the past two weeks, would make them the first team to win the sport's fabulous "double"—the two big national tournament titles in a single season.

It would be the hardwood equivalent of Bobby Jones' "grand slam" in golf or, say, Citation's "triple crown" in racing.

The championship game will take the floor at Madison Square Garden at approximately 10:15 p. m. (EST) following the third place consolation tilt between Baylor and North Carolina State (8:15).

The game has been a sellout for weeks and ticket demands indicate it would draw 100,000 if space permitted. But the famous Midtown arena accommodates little more than 18,000.

The fact that Bradley is the nation's No. 1 team based on season's play and CCNY wasn't even regarded highly enough to rate in the first 20 has become immaterial.

Since the boys started knocking each other over in the post season eliminations, the aroused CCNY sophomores have acted as if they owned the place.

They swept to the National Invitation title on a series of upsets, turning back Bradley in the final round, 69-61. Then they gained the NCAA finals by routing Ohio State and North Carolina State in the Eastern playoffs—all at the Garden.

Bradley, which has been forced to do a lot of traveling in its tournament endeavors, won the Western playoffs at Kansas City by humbling UCLA and Baylor.

Sports Roundup

By HUGH FULLERTON, JR.

New York, March 28 (AP)—The Phillies and Dodgers will open the 1951 spring exhibition season in Miami March 10. Since they already have permission to beat the ten-day deadline for exhibitions, it appears there must be a solid belief in officials that the March 1 start of training is on the way out.

The news that the Intercollegiate Regatta had been shifted to Marietta, O., hardly had hit the morning papers before the Cornell Athletic association had a call from a Columbus alumnus, Charles Rindfoos, asking for six tickets.

Roy Clogston, genial North Carolina State athletic director, was one of those under consideration for a similar post at Minnesota before Bernie Bierman was tapped for the job.

NOT UP ALLEN'S ALLEY

Sportscaster Bump Harley, an ex-major leaguer himself, was taking movies of the Boston Braves, batting practice the other day.

When Bill Allen, 18-year-old, six-foot-five pitcher, stepped into the cage he said: "Don't take pictures of me hitting." Having once been a pitcher, Bump was amazed to find one elbow artist who didn't boast about his clubbing ability.

"Why, kid? Aren't you proud of your hitting?" Hadley asked. "Not exactly," Allen grunted. "Well," concluded Bump, "If you're not proud of it, nobody else will be."

35 SEEK BERTHS AT BIGLERVILLE

Thirty-five baseball hopefuls responded to the initial practice call issued by Coach Russ Kane Monday evening as baseball in the 1950 season got under way at Biglerville high school. With the season's opener set for April 6 Coach Kane and his squad will be plenty busy for the next few days.

Pave veteran players are returning to action. They are Dick Pitzer, Donald Tuckey, Chubb Rice, Danny Bushman and George Slaybaugh.

On the mound this year Coach Kane will be depending on the pitching of Dick Pitzer, Danny Bushman, and John Slaybaugh. Behind the plate also Kane will have a choice of three backstops, George Slaybaugh, Jack Howe, and John Frederick.

For the first base position its a toss-up between Larry Lawver and Dale Hoffman. At the second sack it will be Mike Wertz or Charles Schoffstall. Donald Tuckey is a cinch to hold down the short-stop position while Coach Kane is high in his

HOLD BOXING TOURNEY

State College, Pa., March 28 (AP)—A two-school scrap for team honors between Louisiana State and Syracuse developed today for the National Collegiate Boxing Tourney opening here Thursday. Observers predicted a good scattering among the 16 schools entering boxers but Louisiana State and Syracuse had the jump on the others for the team title. Each had six men accepted by the NCAA rules committee.

Today's Talk
By GEORGE MATTHEW ADAMS

CRITICS
I am of the opinion that a critic has his place in the world, but I dislike the word. I prefer the word commentator. The professional critic somehow has it in his bones to find fault, if possible, and he makes it nearly always possible.

Few of the critics gave praise to Lincoln's Gettysburg Address. One stated that it was unworthy of the President of the United States. One newspaper, however—The Chicago Tribune—predicted it would become immortal! That prophecy has already proved to be true.

Many a book in my library, which today has become a classic, was given its death sentence by critics when first published. Less than three hundred copies of Thoreau's "A Week on the Concord and Merrimack Rivers" were sold and first published. The critics apparently were on a vacation. How I would love to have one of those first editions that Thoreau had to carry on his back to the attic, as written in his journal!

For years I have loved the artistic books of poetry by W. H. Davis, the English poet. Edward Thomas, Robert Frost, Edward Garnett, Joseph Conrad, and others admired and praised him, as well as giving him courage. He was known as the tramp-poet. One day the poet sent a copy of his poems to George Bernard Shaw with a letter asking him to send him half a crown for it, or return the book. Shaw, in characteristic fashion, exclaimed that "this was attractively simple and sensible!" So instead of returning the book, he bought eight others and told Davis to send them to critics—"wondering if they would recognize a poet when they met one!"

In my town it has often been said that a critic could make or break a play, when produced. It has happened both ways. I have just noticed, however, that there was one play they all tore to shreds, that ran for more than three years, and which now is posted, after many years, for a return engagement! You guessed it—"Abie's Irish Rose!"

Tomorrow Mr. Adams will talk on the subject: "Buds and Birds" highly-placed White House advisor said today that President Truman has decided to deny loyalty files of State department employees to a Senate committee hunting communists and spies in government.

This advisor, who asked that he not be quoted by name, said Mr. Truman's position was outlined by J. Edgar Hoover's statement that the Federal Bureau of Investigation would be "crippled" if its confidential files are opened to Senators.

Both Hoover and Attorney General McGrath briefed Mr. Truman in advance on their testimony. McGrath also has talked to a Senate foreign relations subcommittee investigating charges by Senator McCarthy (R-Wis.) of pro-communist leanings by State department employees.

Consider Changes
The White House official said Mr. Truman could not release files requested by Subcommittee Chairman Tidings (D-Md.), without opposing both McGrath and Hoover.

Meanwhile, another White House official described as "good speculation" a report that consideration is being given to shifting Secretary of the Air Force Symington to the chairman of the National Security Resources board.

It also has been established that Budget Director Frank Pace is under consideration for appointment as secretary of the Army when Gordon Gray steps out to assume the presidency of the University of North Carolina in September.

Plans Speeches
This official said he did not know when Mr. Truman will be able to announce the appointment of a chairman of the Atomic Energy commission to succeed David E. Lilienthal, who resigned several weeks ago.

He made it clear that no attempt will be made to draft either Gray or Robert P. Patterson, former Secretary of the Army. But he said, the President "hopes to get the chairmanship buttoned up soon."

Meanwhile, close associates disclosed the President is planning a series of speeches designed to consolidate public opinion in support of a unified front against communism.

The Ptomaine Canary
By Helen Traubel

Editor's Note: Just for fun, Helen Traubel, the Metropolitan opera soprano, recently wrote a short "who-dunit" as a present for her friends. Chief figure in the yarn, oddly enough, is an opera soprano who wants to write mystery stories. And now, just for the amusement of both mystery story and opera fans, we are reprinting the unusual story as a short serial, starting today.

Chapter 1
On the stage of the Metropolitan Opera House, Brunhilde Wagner, the celebrated dramatic soprano, was a stately figure commanding the rapt attention of an audience that literally bulged the walls of that ancient structure.

From the orchestra pit the music of "Die Walkure" rose in wild and savage splendor as Otto Furst's baton quivered in the air. Tonight's performance was one that would be long remembered and that would find the critics tossing their hats into the air. Even the musicians and the supers backstage were enthralled. Never before had they heard Madame Wagner sing so magnificently. From that golden throat, poured notes of such voluptuous beauty as to make the senses reel.

High in the galleries vocal students felt like tearing up their voice teachers.

And yet no one, not one single person in that vast auditorium, so much as suspected that a great frustration burned like an unholy fire in the breast of the famous prima donna.

It was a frustration of long standing, and one to be carefully considered in the light of subsequent events.

At her side the bearded Wotan briefed her with orders for the day. Brunhilde cut loose with her battle cry, "Ho, yo, to ho." The orchestral accompaniment swelled with the turbulence of a storm tossed sea and she galloped off to the fray.

Two people were waiting for her in the wing. Her husband, Bill Wagner, and her friend, Lily Furst, the conductor's ex-wife.

"You were wonderful, darling," breathed Lily.

Others closed in for congratulations, but Bill shook them off. "You have a few minutes for your next cue," he said. "You need some relaxation. Here—" and he thrust a book into her hands.

Brunhilde lowered herself into a chair. At once her interest was captured by the title of the book, EM-BALMER'S HOLIDAY. The jacket design showed a female sitting on a gravestone combing her hair.

Avidly Brunhilde turned to page one, hoping that this book would be as good as the last which she had finished just before tonight's performance. For Brunhilde's belonged to that vast army of fans who find escape and intellectual exercise in the reading of mysteries. Her yearly expenditures were said to keep a number of authors in a state of economic solvency.

As the opera proceeded, Madame Wagner became immersed in blood, mayhem and detection, oblivious to her surroundings until the director called, "Ready, Mme. Wagner, your cue."

From the stage, Fricka's summons shook the rafters.

Handing the book back to her husband, Brunhilde opened her mouth, got wired for sound, turned up the volume, and strode back on to the stage.

She took her cue from the music, trying to avoid the conductor's eyes. They were not on good terms. Otto Furst, a tall, not unhandsome man, with baleful eyes and a disordered crop of hair, had many female admirers. Only a few days ago a wealthy old widow in White Plains had died, willing him her fortune.

And then, while she sang, something else swam into the line of Brunhilde's vision.

Faces in the front row—familiar faces—she had seen them before. But where? And then she remembered. They were faces she had seen on the backs of many book jackets.

Brunhilde blinked, unable to believe her own eyes. It couldn't be possible. It must be some trick of lighting or wishful thinking, or something conjured by her imagination.

And yet—there they sat, smiling up at her, a galaxy of her favorite authors.

Agatha Christie, John Dickson Carr, Rex Stout, Erle Stanley Gardner, A. Patrick, Ellery Queen, and many others she instantly identified. People who had entertained her and chilled and thrilled her, made her laugh and kept her awake through many a night.

Her gaze veered into the wings.

Bill Wagner stood there smiling. Then she knew. It was true. This was no figment of her imagination. They were all there, out front. She and Bill had often discussed inviting these virtuosos of gore and extinction to hear her sing and later to meet her personally. She was a fan of theirs and she wanted them to be fans of hers.

Her pleasure was communicated to her voice, and it soared now with new glory.

think. It is also the way we act toward other people. As a matter of fact, democracy touches every aspect of the life of our community.

If a democracy exists in a country so small as to make it possible for all voters to meet in one place to formulate policies, and frame laws, that government is called a pure democracy (somewhat as in the New England town meeting). If the country is too large to make such personal action possible, the laws are made and executed by representatives chosen by the people, in which case the country is a representative democracy. England, Canada and the United States are representative democracies.

Rights God-Given

In the American democracy it is believed "that all men are created equal, that they are endowed by their Creator with certain inalienable rights, that among these are life, liberty and the pursuit of happiness." American government holds that governments derive "their just powers from the consent of the governed."

It provides for freedom of speech, of the press, of the right of assembly, and of worship. Its plan of government, as previously stated, is representative. It upholds private ownership of property. It is vitally concerned with the welfare of all the people. It recognizes many political parties. It provides for particiipation of all in the government. It recognizes majority rights and at the same time attempts to protect minority and individual rights.

So whether you call it a Democracy or a Republic, whether you judge its benefits by the car in your garage or by freedom to worship at the church of your choice, by the food on your table or by your freedom to speak out in public without fear, we are living under a system of government based on the dignity and freedom of the individual, that derives its power from the bottom up rather than from the top down.

Beginnings of Democracy
It was not until within comparatively recent time that we find the beginnings of real democracy. It is true that in certain of the Greek city-states there was what was called democracy, that is, rule of the people. Nevertheless, this participation in the government was limited to a small group of free citizens.

Then there was the Magna Charta which guaranteed certain rights to the individual citizen of England. But four hundred years later this failed when James Stuart became king and determined to have his way regardless of what the people desired. Nearly two thousand years passed from the time of the Greeks before the world saw the first great experiment in real democracy, in the United States of America. It is based on the oldest written constitution in the world still in force and has been preserved through great idealism—great human sacrifice.

Like the sun in the sky and the cream in your coffee, the continuation of this system is too often taken for granted. Little more than a generation ago in America democracy seemed triumphant. The wisdom, beneficence, and endurance of this order were generally accepted as axiomatic. The people of the United States took pride in the characterization of their country as the "great democracy of the West" and nourished the conviction that for generations they had been leading mankind in the struggle for popular liberty and justice. They firmly believed that the twentieth century would witness the spread of democratic ideas, values and institutions throughout the world.

Cloud Of Communism

Let us be warned: today, in other parts of the world, its flaws are being exaggerated and its benefits minimized. To the discerning eye, to be sure, somber clouds, presaging coming storms, are appearing on the horizon, so that the outlook is now radically changed. Perhaps the darkest of these clouds is communism in which a dictatorship is set up, paradoxically, in the name of democracy. In actual practice it becomes a dictatorship first of a party that claims to represent the people, and then of a handful of men who claim to represent the party.

So there are also foes at home—selfishness, a "pursuit of happiness" that disregards the rights of others, a wrong idea of what liberty and freedom mean—all perilous to democracy. Its blood stream is likewise weakened by indifference, neglect, and even cynicism.

Therefore it is imperative that these foes, both foreign and near at hand, be liquidated. We as high school students—future leaders of America and the world—must be builders of democracy. We must be industrious, honest, intelligent. We must be able and willing to work with others. We must take an intelligent interest in government, and in so doing carry out the duties of good citizenship which are summed up below.

Duties Of Citizenship
A good citizen will vote at all elections. He will inform himself on candidates and issues and will use his greatest influence to see that honest and capable officials are elected. He will accept public office when he can serve his community or his country thereby.

A good citizen will respect and obey the laws. He will assist public officials in preventing crime and the courts in giving evidence. He will serve on a jury when asked.

A good citizen will work for peace but will dutifully accept his responsibilities in time of war and will respect the flag. He will pay his taxes understandingly (if not cheerfully). In thought, expression, and action; at home, at school and in all his contacts, he will avoid any group prejudice based on class, race or religion.

A good citizen will support our system of free public education by doing everything he can to improve the schools in his own community. He will try to make his community a better place in which to live. He will practice and teach the principles of good citizenship right in his own home, which, after all, is where democracy really begins.

Individual Responsibility
A citizen in a democracy must consider one of his tasks to be the constant improvement of himself. It is not easy to fulfill all that is demanded of us as good citizens. But by constant effort we can more nearly reach the ideals set for us. Democracy is everybody's job, and every one of us must work at it.

MARCH STORMS SHOW SIGNS OF TAPERING OFF

(By The Associated Press)

Weather elements, after an early spring of violence, showed signs of getting back on a more normal basis today.

The late March storms dealt punishing blows over the Midwest, the plains states and over much of the South. The climatic upsurge was a mixture of weather—snow, rain, hail, winds of gale velocity, sleet and dust storms.

Rail and highway travel in some parts of the Midwest storm belt was curtailed. Some schools were closed. Communications were disrupted.

Below Freezing Today

Temperatures dropped over the Midwest as the storms struck. They were below freezing in some north and central areas today.

The intense snow-sleet-rain and sleet that whipped across the Midwest and into the northern part of the country today as it moved eastward. It left in its wake blankets of snow over areas of Colorado, Wyoming, Nebraska, Kansas, Oklahoma and Texas. Drifts piled seven feet in parts of North Dakota.

The dust storms which caused heavy damage to wheat crops in Texas, Kansas, Oklahoma and Nebraska eased but there still was dust in the air in parts of Texas.

But the winds had diminished considerably from the blows of Sunday which carried away rich topsoil and caused many highway accidents. A Kansas state college astronomist predicted that heavy rain would be in the forecast for the next few days. Damage will be in the million dollar bracket before summer.

Rain, wind and dust storms buffeted the south yesterday. Scores were injured and property damage was heavy. The gale like winds and rain extended over areas of Arkansas, Mississippi, Alabama, Tennessee, Georgia, Kentucky and Louisiana.

Winds of 70 to 100 mph swirled across a 700-mile front of Louisiana and Arkansas. Small craft warnings were hoisted from Texas to the Florida Keys and to Cape Hatteras, N. C. Dust storms blackened skies over northwest Florida, southern Georgia and parts of Alabama. A small tornado hit Paden, Miss., leveling a dozen homes, and caused an estimated $200,000 damage.

WELFARE STATE

Common sense and the welfare of the country.

"At the same time," Broughton continued, "I do not mean to suggest that this magnificent country is approaching the prostrate condition of Europe. We have a long tradition of individual enterprise. In a sense, we have a business history."

Must Check Tax Rise

"Government costs have increased tremendously. In 1915 the budget was $746 million. In 1943 it was $43 billion, an increase of more than 5,000 per cent. The burden of financing this cost is what we are struggling with today. And it is through our efforts to meet these costs that we are changing our way of life. Unless we reverse or at least halt these increasing tax demands we cannot halt the trend toward the welfare state."

"A dominant note in much thinking today is security—yet there is no such thing as security for any of us. Social security, which we think of as something like an annuity, is not on a sound basis. Its cost will actually have to be born by the next generation. What we pay in at present, for the small benefits that are promised, is 10 to 15 billion dollars less than the actual amount that would be needed to pay our social security."

"Companies are being saddled with pension plans that will have to be paid out of income. In 1948, wages and salaries combined were nearly seven times the amount of corporate profits after taxes. It is obvious that pension cannot be paid out of profits. They will have to be financed by heavy price increases."

Sees Hope In Future

Broughton concluded his talk by noting that "There is however hope for the future. The world is in a tremendous state of unrest at the moment. Out of that will come, in all likelihood—progress. It is encouraging that the American businessman knows that the people of the world are seeking something better, and is attempting to give them something better."

"There are dangerous people in the world, the people who are trying to take advantage of the unrest of the people, the attempts of the world to seek a better life. But they can be combated by such as you and I, businessmen, who can help change mass psychology, by the simple application of common sense and the principles of constructive propaganda. Business men must convince their own publics, their own employees and their own communities. They must do this if the world they have created is to survive."

John A. Hauser, president of the C. H. Mueselmann company, Biglerville, introduced the speaker. President William G. Weaver presided at the meeting with 50 present.

Scoutmaster Gets Lost Blazing Trail

Lawton, Okla., March 28 (AP)—Boy Scout Leader J. O. Pierce took eight members of his troop on a camping trip to give them some experience in outdoor lore—such as trail blazing.

And who got lost? Scoutmaster Pierce.

He couldn't find his way back to their camp in the Wichita mountains for nine hours.

Pierce said he finally found his way to the headquarters by following a fence row to a road—then hitched a ride with a motorist.

The boys said they would let Pierce keep his trail-blazing card.

FATALLY SCALDED

New York, March 28 (AP)—Four men were scalded to death Monday in the explosion of a boiler they were repairing. The explosion, releasing steam and hot water at a 450-degree temperature, occurred at the Kips Bay station of the New York Steam corporation, 417 East 35th street.

Harrisburg, March 28 (AP)—The north branch of the Susquehanna river, fed by the melting snow and recent rains, rose rapidly today with flood stages indicated at Towanda and Wilkes-Barre. The federal-state flood forecasting service said there was no present danger of high water on the west branch of that river.

SAYS STRONG US NAVY CAN KEEP WARS ABROAD

Washington, March 28 (AP)—A top Navy expert challenges the widespread belief that modern war machines such as a long range aircraft have ended America's long immunity from foreign invasion.

"By fully exploiting the use of sea power it will always be possible for this country to ensure that a war will not be fought on our own soil but will be carried to the terrain of the probable enemy."

This declaration was made yesterday by Rear Admiral C. B. Momsen in a speech before the Washington post of the Society of American Military Engineers.

Hints At "Developments"

Momsen, inventor of the famous Momsen lung used to escape from sunken submarines, now is assistant chief of naval operations for undersea warfare.

Declaring that "our most probable enemy today" is concentrating on submarine construction and that the Navy has given anti-submarine warfare "highest priority," Momsen said: "By drawing inferences from the effective undersea campaigns of the past it seems almost a sure bet that an attempt will be made to nullify our sea power through the use of the submarine and the mine."

He added, however, that he had reason to believe that a development is just ahead which will enable the U. S. "to drive submarines off the sea . . . and if my prediction is correct, submarines will become a mighty dangerous business."

To Make Sub Vulnerable

He made no reference to previous naval estimates that Russia has 270 submarines and is building others.

Momsen explained that modern undersea craft now are able to fire target-seeking and pattern-weaving torpedoes from distances beyond the range of ships' listening devices.

The new defense development, he said, is aimed at extending this listening range, thus making the stalking undersea raider vulnerable to attack before he can loose his bolt.

Momsen gave no details as to how he believes the detection problem will be licked.

planning a career in journalism or nursing.

As a result of her 152-point score in the examination given the essay writers, she can have, if she wishes, a four-year senatorial scholarship which will pay full tuition to either Penn State, Temple, Pennsylvania or Pittsburgh universities.

If Miss Wolfe turns down the scholarship, it will go to Paul Smith, Biglerville high school, son of Mr. and Mrs. Charles M. Smith, Gettysburg R. 4, who has taken part in B-HI times and dramatics activities at the school. Smith, who secured a mark of 149 in the exam, is planning to take a scientific course in college.

Third high in the examination was Nina Williams, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Meador Williams, 228 Buford avenue. She had a mark of 147 in the test. Miss Williams also won second place in the essay contest, and will be given a $15 award for that accomplishment. Third place in the essay writing went to Ann Shryock, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Luther Shryock, 252 Chambersburg street, who will get $10 and fourth place, a prize of $5, was won by Earl Humbert, Littlestown high school senior, in the essay contest.

The examination was conducted by members of the teaching staff at Gettysburg college and the essays were judged by members of the English department at the college. Only those students whose essays were entered in the county contest were admitted to the examination for the scholarship.

Enters State Contest

Wolfe's prize winning essay will be entered in the state American Legion essay contest. The top prize in that event is a four-year scholarship and a $250 cash prize.

A meeting of the county Legion essay contest committee was held Monday afternoon at Doctor Keefe's office in the local high school.

The prizes will be awarded at programs arranged by the Legion posts in the towns of the winners, together with the principals of the schools of the winners.

Seek Businessman In $10,563 Swindle

Butler, Pa., March 28 (AP)—Sidney Kurtz, missing Butler businessman, is the object of an eight-state police search today on a charge he swindled 16 home owners out of $10,563.

Butler county Detective Harry A. Cooper swore out a warrant before Alderman Don R. Watson yesterday charging Kurtz with embezzlement. Cooper said the man's victims are residents of five western Pennsylvania counties.

Kurtz, about 35, operated the Main street office of the National Insulating and Veneering company. The detective said Kurtz worked this way: When customers paid accounts in full to Kurtz, he sent only a monthly payment to the bank. When customers paid more than their monthly payments, Kurtz kept the extra money. When the total reached $10,563, Kurtz vanished.

ARE RUSSIANS TEMPTED TO TRY SHOOTING WAR?

By DEWITT MACKENZIE
(AP Foreign Affairs Analyst)

Dr. Konrad Adenauer, chancellor of the West German government, declares that "the temptation to make war is greater for Russia than is generally believed."

The chancellor maintains that peace can be secured "only if the Soviet leaders are convinced of the futility of conquering Europe." Therefore he feels the "time has come to act" in order to demonstrate the futility by preparedness.

One would find it hard to quarrel with the chancellor's assay of the situation. Russia has been building up her military strength in Eastern Europe. She has consolidated her German zone of occupation, in which she not only maintains a great standing army but is creating a German military force.

Temptation May Be There

Meantime Western Europe, despite elaborate preparations for defense, isn't ready for a major war. Adenauer points out that if Western Europe were occupied by Russian armies "those who could contribute to the rebirth of a Western democracy x x x would be liquidated."

If that is a correct estimate of the situation, then it is safe to assume that Russia must at least have given academic consideration to the general proposition. The idea of course would be to strike before the Western nations were fully set for action.

So in theory, at least, the temptation for Russia to strike may be there. Of course it is precisely because of this that the military leaders of the 12 Atlantic Treaty allies, including America's General Omar Bradley, are meeting this week at The Hague to consider regional defense plans. And linked in a general way was the meeting last week in Rome of America's six top European ambassadors to consider ways and means of countering communism.

Arguments Against It

So the temptation might be there for Russia to strike a quick blow.

However, Moscow certainly would find strong arguments against any such move.

Perhaps the greatest deterrent would be that Russia isn't yet prepared to compete with the United States in atomic warfare. Moreover, the conflict between communism and democracy in Asia is still in its beginnings. One wouldn't expect Moscow to undertake a two-front shooting war at this juncture.

If Russia were in possession of all Germany, the story might be different. That would give Moscow the key position in continental Europe.

However, the only way the Muscovites could get possession at this juncture would be through a shooting war, which most observers feel the Soviet Union doesn't want.

As for the cold war, Canadian Prime Minister Louis St. Laurent summed the thing up neatly yesterday in a speech at Toronto. He said the cold war depends on a change in the attitude of Russia, which "is not going to come overnight," and may not come for a generation.

New York, March 28 (AP)—Radio-television stocks boomed again today. While the balance of the market steered a narrow course, TV issues advanced decisively for gains of fractions to around a point. Zenith Radio and Radio Corp. were particularly active. TV stocks surged ahead yesterday morning but heavy profit taking sales gave them a mauling before the close.

meeting, the club voted $75 to the Heart fund drive and gave an additional $50 to the Red Cross. The initial gift was $25. The directors also voted $5 to the board of health for the poster contest prize fund. On another motion they voted to pay for a name plate and a mirror in the room the club sponsors in the Warner hospital.

John Kendelhart, sight conservation committee head, said the committee had aided 10 persons in securing glasses and furnished one white cane.

Committee Reports Given
Richard S. Codori, community betterment chairman, said his committee had aided with the "Rock Creek and mosquito nuisance" investigation. He added that his group favors the 60-day trial period planned by the borough council on one-way streets in the town.

LeRoy LeVan, safety committee chairman, is studying a suggestion for warning lights at local railroad grade crossings. J. B. Collins, health and welfare committee chairman, read a letter from the Red Cross telling how the two hospital beds and the walker furnished recently by the Lions are being put to use constantly. He said the Red Cross needs additional wheel chairs and the committee may have a recommendation in that connection later.

Other committee reports included: Elmer H. Schriver, attendance, reporting approximately 60 members have perfect attendance records to date; T. D. Hay, publicity; citizenship and patriotism, Jacob Appier; United Nations, Rev. C. E. Held; greeters, Charles Swisher; program, Prof. William Duck; convention, J. Clarence Waybright; membership, Kenneth P. Hull; constitution and by-laws, Milton R. Remmel; special activities, Fred Sanders; car committee, Glenn Little; Lions' education, D. E. Hess; kindly thought, Fred Troxell, and music, David Bloser.

Instead Of Little Debts Coming From Everywhere—Center Them In One At Lincoln Square

Scattered little debts are hard to handle. Each one seems to have the habit of coming due just at the most inconvenient time. You can't organize yourself to pay them.

On the other hand, it is simple to bunch all these obligations into a single loan at the First National Bank of Gettysburg. Then you can repay with one payment each month. For the first time, you will find peace of mind.

All eligible borrowers under this monthly plan receive extra life insurance protection without extra cost. The life insurance will pay the unpaid balance on any qualifying loan up to $1,500 in the event of death.

Here is a practical suggestion that will help persons of known character and dependability, to get out of debt.
